

The Post and Courier is a huge value for our advertising dollars

Patient ONE's advertising campaign in The Post and Courier gives us the ability to highlight the variety of medical services we offer. We are able to clearly show how Patient ONE's enhanced and efficient delivery of medical care can best serve the tri-county area.

The flexibility of our campaign and notable exposure received is a huge value for our advertising dollars.

I would recommend advertising in The Post and Courier to reach the tri-county area and to present a variety of advertisements at a frequency that produces results.

As a businessman, I have directed many campaigns for a variety of companies and The Post and Courier has always been a part of my marketing mix.
